COMMUNITY IMPACT

Ranch in Longmont Harvests Crops Next to Solar Array

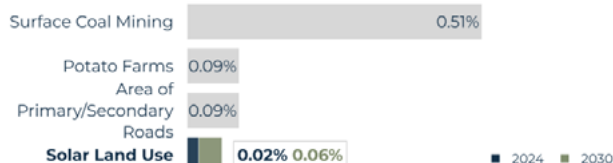

A 24-acre family farm installed 3,276 solar panels to become a nationally recognized agrivoltaics project. Underneath the panels, ducks, geese, and sheep graze, and corn, radishes, and salad greens flourish in the partial shade the panels provide.

Fort Carson Unveils Battery to Pair With Onsite Solar

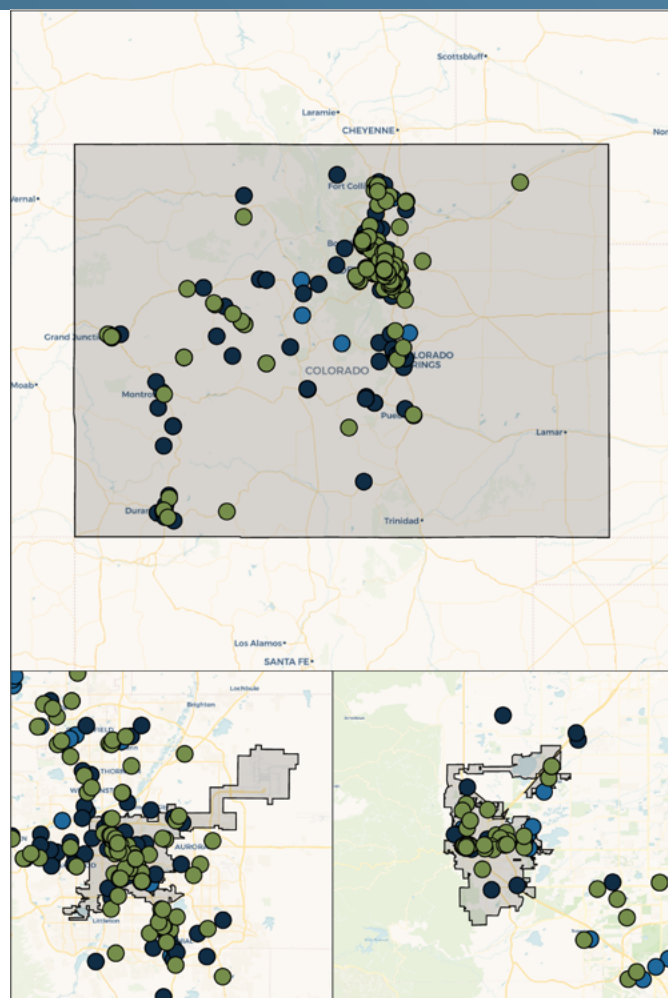

Fort Carson unveiled a battery project and doubled the size of its onsite solar array. This will keep the base functioning during power outages and provide electricity when demand for electricity is highest, saving the base money.
